Project Focus

Art Style Magazine, Art & Culture International Magazine

One of my aims this year is to get Art Style Magazine, Art & Culture International Magazine indexed. In March 2021, the Art Style Magazine will commemorate its second year. Most databases require one or two years of publication as part of the basic set of requirements necessary to be indexed, among many others that I am working on.

Being indexed is a significant achievement. In order to be found by other scholars and considered legitimate, the magazine should be discoverable and visible. The magazine's indexing is an excellent way to increase discoverability, allowing it to achieve higher rates of readership and citation.

Considering that I am the founder and editor-in-chief of Art Style Magazine, hopefully, soon, I am also waiting to be associated as a professor with a good university and interested researchers to link the Art Style Magazine with a university and with a new Support of Third-Party Funded Projects (I have experience with that).
